

Descendants of William Falke

Generation 1

1. WILLIAM¹ FALKE was born about 1390 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died between 20 Feb-05 Mar 1455 in Great Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He married AGNES.

Notes for William Falke:

William Falke of Worlingham, Suffolk, England is the first known ancestor of the line leading to the Fauxes who are found in large numbers in the area between Thetford and Norwich in Norfolk County from the mid 1500s. It is probably unproductive to speculate about earlier generations. The most that can be said is that it is probable that the family originated in the area and simply disappears into the mists of Medieval time. It is tempting to seek continuity back to Norman times. The first recorded instance of the name Falc or variant is in the "Ship Lists" of the Conquest in 1066. Here one finds, in the Wace contemporary list, "e cil qui est siree d'Alnou". This village is Al(u)nou - le - Faucon, on the Orne River south of Caen near Argentan. The first recorded Seigneur here is "Fulk I d'Aunou" (see Elizabeth Van Houts, 'Wace as Historian', in "The History of the Norman People", Glyn S. Burgess (Ed.), 2004, Boydell Press, Woodbridge, Suffolk, p.L). The Domesday Book of 1086 lists only one Falc, an under tennant at Bradford, Suffolk - although there are more individuals with the name Fulk (Falk and Fulk and their derivatives Falkes and Folkes are frequently used for the same individual). The British Archives site also shows 13th Century examples where the name is for example Robert Le Falke (1284), and others where Henry Faulkes is also known as Henry fliius Falcasiis, and Henry FitzFalk (1307). However, the name is very widespread across England from the earliest times, and it is impossible to make any clear connections earlier than about 1390 in Worlingham. Considerably more information about the origins of the surname is found here:
<http://www.davidkfaux.org/files/FauxFalkeSurnameOrigins.pdf>.

William Falke and Agnes had the following child:

2. i. JOHN² FALKE was born about 1425 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died between 15-28 May 1471 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He married ALICE.

Generation 2

2. JOHN² FALKE (William¹) was born about 1425 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died between 15-28 May 1471 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He married ALICE.

Notes for John Falke:

Owned tenement or messuage called Joyyes.

John Falke and Alice had the following children:

- i. AGNES³ FALKE.
- ii. ALICE FALKE.
- iii. ALEXANDER FALKE.

Notes for Alexander Falke:

Possibly the "Alexander Fawcke" of Aldeburgh, Suffolk whose will was probated in 1517.

- iv. HENRY FALKE was born about 1448 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died in 1497 in Pr. Mulbarton, Norfolk, England.

Notes for Henry Falke:

Generation 2 (con't)

Henry Falke obtained his Bachelor and Doctor of Civil Law degrees from Cambridge University, attending King' College and Trinity College. Between 1470 and 1497, Henry was Rector of Swannington, Horstead, Yaxham, Aylsham, and Mulbarton Norfolk. In 1476 he was appointed Official of the Archdeacon of Norfolk; and in 1480 he was an auditor of the common chest of Cambridge University.

3. v. JOHN FALKE was born about 1452 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died between 01-19 Oct 1504 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.

Generation 3

3. JOHN³ FALKE (John², William¹) was born about 1452 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died between 01-19 Oct 1504 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.

Notes for John Falke:

Inherited Father's residence and all lands connected. Some of these lands were at Weston since in the Manorial Extents for Weston Suffolk 1494/5, it was reported that John Falk and Walter Lebbard both of Worlingham "hold by birth by copyheld one close containing by estimation xxii acres of land with their appurtenances in Weston."

John Falke had the following children:

- i. HENRY⁴ FALKE was born about 1475 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England.

Notes for Henry Falke:

In the Lay Subsidy Returns for 1524, "Henry Fauke of Wyrlyngham" was assessed 30 pounds "in goodes". Compared to others, this appears to be a very large sum and may indicate that, as the eldest son, he inherited the properties of his father. It does not, however, appear that, if he did marry, that he had children who lived to adulthood, so the lands would pass to the next eldest son, William. This belief is supported by the large land holdings noted in the will of William's son and heir, Thomas.

5. ii. WILLIAM FALKE was born about 1478 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England.

 - iii. ROBERT FALKE was born about 1480 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died after 25 Mar 1514 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He married AGNES.
 - iv. THOMAS FALKE was born about 1488 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died between 06 Aug-19 Sep 1556 in Mundford, Norfolk, England.

Notes for Thomas Falke:

It is interesting to note how closely the education and career of Thomas Falke parallels that of his uncle Henry Falke - following a virtually identical path. Thomas was at some point Parson of the church at Farndon, Northamptonshire; and subsequently Rector of Mundford, Norfolk County between 1518 and 1556. He owned lands at Mundford, Weeting and Ickburgh, Norfolk County. Also he was a scholar and fellow of King's Hall, Cambridge University between 1505 and 1544. Thomas also attended Trinity College. He raised his nephew John Falke (Faux) from childhood; and is responsible for the relocation of both John and the latter's older brother Thomas from Worlingham Suffolk County to Mundford and Weeting respectively - and thus the establishment of the Faux family in Norfolk County.

6.
 - v. JOHN FALKE was born about 1492 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England.

Generation 4

4. WILLIAM⁴ FALKE (John³, John², William¹) was born about 1478 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England.

William Falke had the following children:

7.
 - i. THOMAS⁵ FALKE was born about 1505 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died in Great Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He married JOHANE. He married (2) ALICE on 22 Oct 1554 in Worlingham All Saints, Suffolk, England.
 - ii. WILLIAM FALKE was born about 1515 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He married (1) JOHAN on 16 Apr 1543 in Worlingham All Saints, Suffolk, England. He married MARGARET.
5. ROBERT⁴ FALKE (John³, John², William¹) was born about 1480 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died after 25 Mar 1514 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He married AGNES.

Notes for Robert Falke:

In his will written the 25th of March in 1514/5 Robert names all the children noted below, as well as his "good chylde Herry Falke", and his "brodr Herry Falke".

Robert Falke and Agnes had the following children:

- i. KATERYNE⁵ FALKE was born in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
- ii. MARGARET FALKE was born in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
- iii. ROBERT FALKE was born in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England.

Notes for Robert Falke:

It seems that this branch of the family may not have inherited any of the original Falke lands in Worlingham. In the Lay Subsidy for 1524, "Robert Falk of Wyrlyngham" was assessed just over 1 pound "in wages", indicating that he was likely an employee.

Generation 4 (con't)

- iv. MARGARIE FALKE was born in pr. Wolrlingham, Suffolk, England.
 - v. JOHN FALKE was born in pr. Wolrlingham, Suffolk, England.
6. JOHN⁴ FALKE (John³, John², William¹) was born about 1492 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England.

Notes for John Falke:

Compared to his brother Henry's assessment of 30 pounds in the Lay Subsidy of 1524, John Falk of North Cove (part of Worlingham) was assessed the more modest sum of just over 7 pounds. It appears that as the youngest son, who may not have inherited any lands from his father, he likely had to take up a trade (typical for younger sons in that era). It appears that he became a shipwright who was at least modestly successful.

John Falke had the following children:

- 9. i. THOMAS FALKE⁵ (FAUX) was born about 1522 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died after 1576 in Norfolk, England. He married Elizabeth Grey, daughter of Nicholas Grey on 05 Jun 1542 in Worlingham All Saints, Suffolk, England. She was born about 1520 in Bunwell, Suffolk, England.
- 10. ii. JOHN FALKE (FAUX) was born about 1530 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died before 07 Nov 1582 in Mundford, Norfolk, England. He married Dorothy Mundeford, daughter of Francis Mundeford about 1555 in pr. Mundford, Norfolk, England. She was born about 1530 in Pr. Feltwell, Norfolk, England.

Generation 5

7. THOMAS⁵ FALKE (William⁴, John³, John², William¹) was born about 1505 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died in Great Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He married JOHANE. He married (2) ALICE on 22 Oct 1554 in Worlingham All Saints, Suffolk, England.

Notes for Thomas Falke:

In his will dated 31 October 1560, "Thomas ffalke the elder of Grett Wurlyngham" made his will. Herein he noted all the children noted below, as well as indicating that John ffalke was his youngest son, and Johanne ffalke was his youngest daughter. Other relatives noted in the will include: Ursula Gunton, granddaughter; Thomas ffalke, nephew; and William ffalke, brother. Thomas ffalke also noted his free and copyhold lands in the twons of Wurlingham, Weston, Ellough, and Ingate. The will was probated 22 January 1560/1.

It appears that Thomas Falke inherited the lions share of the Falke lands in and about Worlingham - perhaps those lands owned originally by the Falke progenitor in the area, his Great Great Grandfather William Falke.

All of the entries in the parish register for Worlingham All Saints (which begin in 1538) can be linked to the descendants of Thomas's Grandfather John Falke who died in 1504. All three individuals with the Falke surname who were baptising children from the beginning of the register in 1538, until 1555 were grandsons of this man. There was Thomas Falke "the elder" and his younger brother William (sons of William); and Thomas Falke "the younger" (son of John). No attempt has been made to trace the descendants of the first two grandchildren since (according to the Suffolk County wills) they stayed in Suffolk County.

Thomas Falke and Johane had the following children:

- i. ROBERT⁶ FALKE was born in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
- ii. AUSTEN FALKE was born in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
- iii. URSULA FALKE was born in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.

Generation 5 (con't)

- iv. ELIZABETH FALKE was born in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
 - v. THOMAS FALKE was born on 04 Feb 1541 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
 - vi. JOHN FALKE was born on 13 Apr 1543 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
 - vii. JOHANNE FALKE was born on 13 Apr 1543 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
8. WILLIAM⁵ FALKE (William⁴, John³, John², William¹) was born about 1515 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He married (1) JOHAN on 16 Apr 1543 in Worlingham All Saints, Suffolk, England. He married MARGARET.

Notes for William Falke:

On the 21st of August 1571 William Falke of Worlingham made his will. Herein he specified that if Thomas dies without male heirs, the lands are to descend to his other sons Austen and John. He noted that son John was to have the "close in Weston" and was to go to school to learn to write; and that "Austen and John are to have their profit at the age of 26 years or else at the day of their marriage". Other relatives noted in the will are Ursula (Perse) "kinswoman", and "Thomas Hunt, husband to daughter Johan".

Lands (other than the above) noted in the will include "free and bond lands in the towns and fields of Worlingham and Weston".

Notes for Johan:

At the time of her marriage to William Falke, Johan was widow Nele.

William Falke and Johan had the following children:

- i. JOHAN⁶ FALKE was born on 01 Mar 1544 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
- ii. JOHN FALKE was born on 01 Mar 1544 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
- iii. JOHANE FALKE was born on 02 Feb 1545 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England. She married Thomas Hunt on 10 Sep 1568 in Worlingham All Saints, Suffolk, England.
- iv. THOMAS FALKE was born about 07 Jul 1548 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
- v. ELIZABETH FALKE was born about 10 Nov 1550 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
- vi. AUSTEN FALKE was born in 1551 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
- vii. JOHN FALKE was born about 25 Apr 1555 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.

William Falke and Margaret had the following child:

- viii. MARGARET FALKE.

9. THOMAS FALKE⁵ (FAUX) (John⁴ Falke, John³ Falke, John² Falke, William¹ Falke) was born about 1522 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died after 1576 in Norfolk, England. He married Elizabeth Grey, daughter of Nicholas Grey on 05 Jun 1542 in Worlingham All Saints, Suffolk, England. She was born about 1520 in Bunwell, Suffolk, England.

Notes for Thomas Falke (Faux):

In the parish registers of Worlingham All Saints Thomas was recorded as "the younger" to distinguish him from his uncle Thomas, known as "the elder", who was also having children baptised at this time. It appears that Thomas Falke "the younger" moved permanently from Worlingham about 1545 (soon after his first child was baptised there) since he disappears from the parish records at this time.

Generation 5 (con't)

Thomas Falke (Faux) and Elizabeth Grey had the following children:

- i. ELIZABETH FALKE⁶ (FAUX) was born on 28 Nov 1544 in Worlingham, Suffolk, England.
 - ii. STEVEN FALKE (FAUX) was born on 18 Nov 1546 in pr. Mundford, Norfolk, England. He died before 24 Jan 1610 in West Tofts, Norfolk, England. He married JOAN.
 11. iii. THOMAS FALKE (FAUX) was born about 1560 in pr. Mundford, Norfolk, England. He married JANE. He married (2) AGNES on 07 Feb 1614 in Weeting All Saints, Norfolk, England.
10. JOHN FALKE⁵ (FAUX) (John⁴ Falke, John³ Falke, John² Falke, William¹ Falke) was born about 1530 in Pr. Worlingham, Suffolk, England. He died before 07 Nov 1582 in Mundford, Norfolk, England. He married Dorothy Mundeford, daughter of Francis Mundeford about 1555 in pr. Mundford, Norfolk, England. She was born about 1530 in Pr. Feltwell, Norfolk, England.

Notes for John Falke (Faux):

On the 6th of August 1556, John's uncle Thomas Falke, Rector of Mundford and owner of considerable estates in the vicinity, wrote his will. Thomas wrote that "I do give to John ffalke the sonne of John ffalke whome I have brought upp of a chyld and to the heires of his bodie lawfullie begotten in manner and form following for terme of his lyff and his heirs male after hym the profightes of all my houses and lands in Weting within the countie of Norff with all their purtenannce both free and coppie also I do give and bequeath to the sayd John for terme of his lyff and to the heirs male of his bodie lawfullie begotten the pfights of all my merce lands tenaments with the comodities and purtenances for and being within the towne and folds of Ickburgh. Item I give and bequeath unto the said John ffalke and to the heires male of his bodie lawfullie begotten the pfights and increases of all my sheep going in foding for my liberties in Ickburgh and Weeting for terme of their lyves and so to remayne to the heirs male of their bodies lawfully begotten

..... Item I will for lack of psons male of the bodie of the said John ffalke all my foresayd meces land and tenaments to Thomas ffalke the brother of the aforesayd John ffalke and to the heirs male of his bodie and for lack of issew male of the foresayd Thomas ffalke lands and tenaments to Thomas ffalke of Worlingham and to ye heires male of his bodie and so all the premises to remayne in the name of ffalke so long as yt shall please god

It seems clear that Thomas Falke was adamant about his property staying in the possession of someone of the Falke surname into the foreseeable future.

John Falke did inherit these properties in Weeting and Ickburgh, with his primary residence being Mundford, and, according to the manorial records, they ultimately passed to his eldest son Thomas. An inspection of the manorial records of Southall and Crocketts Manor Court Roll for Weeting clearly shows the transfer of one parcel of land through three generations. In December 1549 "Thomas Falke clerk purchased from John Bull gent one acre of freehold land pertaining to Hogges messuage in Weeting " In February 1561 these documents record that "Thomas Falke clerk died after the last court, seized of one acre pertaining to Hogges messuage. By his last will, he gave the land to John Falke and his heirs, who is to come to the next court and make fealty." On 14 July 1592 it was stated that "John Falke gent died several years ago, being seized of one acre of freehold land pertaining to Hogges messuage and Thomas Falke is his older son and heir and of full age he is distrained to come to the next court". The adjoining Weeting Manor describes other properties purchased of John Bull, "which the said Thomas Faux had at the court hold 1593/4, as son and heir of John Faux, also at the court held on thursday in the feast of St. James 25 Eliz I" (July 1583). It is noteworthy that in one manor individuals were recorded under the surname spelled Falke, and in the manor next door, in the same time period, the same individuals are noted with the Faux spelling.

A review of the manorial records for Ickburgh indicate that the name showed considerable variation in the court records. His surname "evolved" over the years. Here, during the court of 14 May 1538, the records indicate that "Thomas Fauke clerk Bach Laws owes suit of court." On 7 November 1556 these same records note that Thomas Faulke clerk owes suit of court" and that "John Faulke has allowed 7 pigs to trespass". The spelling of the name in these manor records changes from John Falke / Fauke (1565 - 1560), to John Fawkes (1560 - 1565). In 1563 his name was also spelled Faux. During the Heraldic Visitation of Norfolk in 1563, the heralds recorded that Dorothy Mondeford, daughter of Francis Mondeford, Esq. and Gertrude Hoting, married "John Fawkes of Mondeford." John died in 1582 and the administration papers were filed under the spelling John Faulkes.

Clearly John Falke (Faux) "married well". He married the daughter of the local "squire". Francis Mondeford, Esq. was the Lord of the Manor at Feltwell St Marys and, like each generation before, was buried in the church with suitable effigies and brasses to commemorate his existence and status. Every generation back to at least the 1100s were Lords of the Manor - first at Mundford, then Hockwold, then Feltwell St. Marys. John, however, never rose above the rank of "Gentleman" (a member of the minor gentry) - a title shared by his two eldest sons.

John Falke (Faux) and Dorothy Mundeford had the following children:

- i. THOMAS⁶ FAUX was born about 1560 in pr. Mundford, Norfolk, England. He married Sybell Burrage, daughter of John Burrage and Agnes Wormeley on 02 Apr 1583 in Lackford, Suffolk, England.

- vii. JANE FAUX was born about 30 Sep 1604 in Weeting All Saints, Norfolk, England.

Notes for Agnes:

At her marriage, Agnes was a widow (surname Seckar) of "Shepham".

Thomas Falke (Faux) and Agnes had the following child:

14. viii. ABRAHAM FAUX was born about 28 Feb 1615 in Weeting All Saints, Norfolk, England. He married MARGARET.
12. JOHN⁶ FAUX (John Falke⁵ (Faux), John⁴ Falke, John³ Falke, John² Falke, William¹ Falke) was born about 1565 in pr. Mundford, Norfolk, England. He died on 08 Jul 1619 in pr. <http://venn.lib.cam.ac.uk/Documents/acad/enter.html>. It is unknown if this graduate of Cambridge University was John of Lackford.

John Faux seems to have remained in Norfolk after his elder brother Thomas sold the lands in Weeting and purchased property in Brandon, Suffolk, and Lackford, Suffolk. Thomas Faux appears to have resided continuously in the latter location from 1583. In all likelihood he lived at Brook Farm, which his brother John inherited from him in 1612 - since Thomas Faux and Sybell Burrage had no issue. On 9 July 1595 John Wormlie of Mundford, Yeoman bequested monies to his "sister Burrage" (probably the mother - in - law of Thomas Faux). as well as "to Thomas ffawxe 30/-, and to his wife 20/- to bestow in rings. As will be seen below, both the Burrage and the Wormley families seem to have remained in close contact with Thomas's brother John.

Some contact with various Mundeford relatives is seen in the bequests from various parties. A cousin Adam Moundeford bequeathed to "John ffaulke 20/" on 4 June 1598. Also Elizabeth Might (nee Mundeford), his cousin, bequeathed "Cousin John Falke" a sum of money on 11 May 1610. On 25 June 1614 another cousin, Sir Edmund Moundeford willed "To John ffalke of Lackford, Suffolk L10". In an inquisition Post Mortem on Sir Edmund Moundeford, it was noted therein that lands had been conveyed "manors and lands etc. in Feltwell, Hockwold"...Wilton and Methwold and Northwold to a number of individuals, most "Sir" or "Kt" or "Esq." as well as "John Falke, Gent."

One wonders whether, considering that the Faux family was well established at Croxton, Norfolk from at least the mid 1600s, whether John had any interest in thie manors and farms of this area - which would give circumstantial evidence linking John and his proposed grandson Gregory (born circa 1618, yeoman, had lease of Norwick Farm, Croxton Park at the time of his death). Although the records are very spotty, we find the following:

"Sibton in Croxton Manorial Court Record for 5th August 1615 Complaint Thomas Brett shepherd of the sheep of Borage <M>arten and John Fawkes introduced a flock of sheep called the Chappell Flocke in ¿Le? Infield between Lady Day and the Exaltation of the Holy Cross In contravention of the order made in the Court held here on the 30th October of the 24th year of (the reign of) Elizabeth lately Queen of England therefore he incurs the penalty prescribed in the same Court 40 shillings." (copied from manorial records at Arundel by Heather Warne, and checked by Ivor Faux). This shows that John and his brother in law (via his second wife Margaret Martyn). Borrage Martin had an interest in Sibton Manor at Croxton, and more particularly the Chappell Farm. There is a multi-generational link between the Mundeford, Wormeley, Martin and Borrage families.

John Faux "late of Lackford" appears to have become sick quite unexpectedly and he dictated a nuncupative will wherein he assigned all his worldly possessions to his wife Margaret. Since one of the witnesses was Wormley Martin of Mundford Norfolk, it appears that John Faux may have died there - especially since John was noted as being "late of Lackford" in the said will.

The inventory to his property of 20 July 1619 indicates that in addition to land at Icklingham, he also had the lease of the watermill at Thetford, as well as the lease of the 145 acre "Broke Farm" (Brook Farm which still shows on modern maps - near Lackford).

Notes for Thomas Faux:

On 20 March 1609, Agnes Borage, widow of lackford Suffolk made a bequest to Thomas in her will. She was the mother in law of Thomas's uncle Thomas Faux (who married Sybell Burrage), and Thomas' grandmother (his father married Ann Burrage, siste to the aforementioned Sybell). Here Agnes bequeathed, "To Margaret ffalke the wife of John ffalke a ring of 40/-, To Thomas ffalke the son of John ffalke of Lackford L60 towards his education." Such bequests were typically made when the child was about 14, making the birthdate of Thomas Faux about 1595. Agnes Borrage's legacy? As this was to be given to him in twelve yearly instalments of £5, this would mean from age 14 to age 25. (Ivor Faux. Ivor also calculated that this sum would be comparable to between £15,000 and £18,000 - a vast sum for educational purposes. There could be a connection here to the following Thomas Falke/Faulkes in Cambridge Alumni:

Name: THOMAS FAULKES or

Entered: Easter, 1623

Name: FAULKES or FALKE

More Information: 1623, 127. Add Probably V. of Runham, Norfolk, 1639-43. (R. J. Beevor.). (<http://venn.lib.cam.ac.uk/Documents/acad/enter.html>). This research and that below was from Dr. Ivor Faux.

The years between 1643 and 1662 were the Cromwellian epoc which disrupted all religious activities and results, typically, in a gap for these years in the parish registers. Hence it is unknown what Thomas was doing in this interval although he seems to be associated with Honing in Tunstede (see Blomefield). In 1662 Thomas is recorded as the Vicar of Honing and Rector of Brumstead as of 22 August of that year (but already in office there). On 1 June 1665, Thomas Falke was appointed Rector of Crostwick [Crostwight], where he remained until his death on 29 October 1668 (Clergy of the Church of England Database - <http://ccedb.cch.kcl.ac.uk/jsp/search/index.jsp>). The Wiki for Crostwight gives Thomas Falke as Rector in 1662 (<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Crostwight>).

There is an administration for a Thomas Faulke of Brunstead dated 23 May 1668, granted to his widow Elizabeth. The date is not consistent with the above (the assumption being that the document is in error by one year and should read 1669. Considering that a Crosswight is next door to Brumstead and Honing, it is likely that Thomas remained with all three charges but resided in Brumstead where he died. Also, it would appear that Thomas re-married at some point.

Generation 7 (con't)

Thomas Faux and Alice Ollett had the following children:

17.
 - i. GREGORY⁸ FAUX was born about 1618 in pr. Mundford, Norfolk, England. He died between 12 Mar 1677-04 Oct 1681 in Methwold Hythe, Norfolk, England. Notes for Issac Faux:

Isaac Faux is buried under a large "table" stone near the entrance door to Thetford St. Marys Church (according to Blomefield who wrote his history of Norfolk in the 1730s). DKF located the tomb, but the writing on the top was illegible. Isaac Faux of Thetford Suffolk wrote his will on the 24th of September 1720, and named all the children, sons in law, and grandchildren noted below. In addition, he bequeathed his "messuages, lands, and tenements" to his grandson Isaac Caston, and willed other items to kinswomen Ann & Elizabeth Molton of Lynn, his niece Mary Turner widow, and son in law John Miller. His will was probated the 1st of April 1721.

He married (3) GRACE on 23 May 1669 in Croxton, Norfolk, England.

Notes for Gregory Faux:

On the 12th of March 1676/77, "Gregory Ffaukes of Methwold hith in ye county of Norffk yeoman" made his will wherein he bequeathed to his "daughter in lawe Grace Butter one browne weaningble calfe" and required that "Gregory ffauks my son shall pay unto my son Thomas ffaukes of Crocksham (sic) ye summe of twelve pounds to be paid in one whole year after my decease. Item I doe make my son Gregory ffaukes and my son Thomas ffaukes and my daughter Anne Gathercoale my whole extentive of all ye rest of my moveable goods wsoevr" . His will was probated on the 4th of October 1681. In all probability he died in this year.

Gregory Faux and Frances Elmore had the following children:

19. i. GREGORY⁹ FAUX was born about 09 May 1642 in Croxton, Norfolk, England. He died on 18 Mar 1698 in Croxton, Norfolk, England. He married MARY.

Notes for Gregory Faux:

On the 25th of February 1697/8, "Gregory Faux of Croxton in the County of Norf. Yeoman" made his last will. As to the contents, therein he bequeathed "unto Mary my beloved wife my cppyhold cottage in Croxton during her naturalle lyfe after her demayse to my son Gregory Faux & his heirs forever." "It. I give unto my son John Faux all my freehold estate whatsoever & that during the six years that he is to have the Norwick farm but for want of farming the same my will is that my wife shall enter upon the same my will is that my wife shall enter upon my sayd freehold estate & take the pfits thereof during her naturall life. I give unto my son in law James Thorpe five pounds and to my daughter Susan his wife fifteen pounds". The will was probated the 3rd of May 1698.

Norwick Farm is now known as Croxton Park, a very large estate whose centerpiece is the flintstone manor house and the nearby massive barn complex - also built of flintstone and adorned with ancient gargoyles.

In Blomefield's visit to Croxton All Saints Church in 1738, he noted that "On the pavement of the nave lies a grave - stone, In memory of Gregory Faux, who died March 18, Ao Dom. 1697, aged 57." During the visit of DKF to the same church in 1986, this stone could not be located.

At one time John Burrell Faux had been the mayor of Thetford and was very prominent in the cultural life of his community. On 24 July 1838 John Burrell Faux, grocer and draper of the parish of St. Cuthbert in the Borough of Thetford wrote his will wherein he assigns his son John Burrell Faux of Thetford to be his executor. He also mentions "my youngest son Charles Gregory William Faux until he obtains law age of twenty one years....." It is odd that Charles would seem to have been born in 1818 or later - since the closest sibling was born in 1807. It also is unusual that, although alive at the time, John Burrell Faux does not mention his eldest son Gregory.

John Burrell Faux and Susan Godfrey Burgess had the following children:

- i. GREGORY¹⁴ FAUX was born on 18 Aug 1804 in Thetford St. Cuthbert, Norfolk, England. He died on 07 Jun 1855 in Thetford, Norfolk, England. He married ELLEN. She was born about 1819 in Burgate, Suffolk Co, England.

- iv. CHARLES GREGORY WILLIAM FAUX was born after 1818.

Notes for Charles Gregory William Faux:

In the will of his father written on the 24th of July 1838, Charles Gregory William Faux was noted as the youngest son, and that he had not yet reached the age of 21. At present it is unknown what happened to Charles. Considering that he would have to have been 20 or under at the time, that places his birthdate as 1818 or later. This means he was born 11 or more years after his nearest sibling in age. No baptismal record has been located for Charles, so it is possible that he was adopted.

STOW BEDON - EARLY YEARS

Robert Faux was baptised on 2 April 1786 at Stowbedon (Stow Bedon), Norfolk, the second child and only son of Robert Faux (baptised 15 January 1749, Banham, Norfolk County; buried 18 December 1821 at Stowbedon) and Elizabeth Betts (baptised 8 April 1759 at Shropham, Norfolk County; died 19 May 1845 at Stowbedon). The couple had been married on 19 June 1779 at Snetterton, Norfolk County. Robert had one sister, Mary, who appears to have remained in Stowbedon throughout her life.

In all likelihood Robert would have followed in his father's footsteps and spent his life as a farm labourer in the service of some local landowner. However, events conspired to provide opportunities denied his father, which would lead him far from his native land. As the eighteenth century drew to a close, war clouds were looming on the horizon, and fears of war with France intensified. In this climate Robert spent his teenage years, and doubtless worked for a few years as a farm labourer. He must have, however, had the chance of attending school at some point as he was able to read and write by the time he was a young adult.

Robert's future bride, Mary Clarke, was baptised 29 January 1786 at Rockland All Saints, Norfolk County - a parish adjoining Stowbedon. Mary was the daughter of John Clarke (buried 26 January 1788, Rockland All Saints) and Susan Warren (born 1758, baptised 25 January 1763 at Great Ellingham; buried 22 October 1821, Rockland All Saints). This couple was married 26 October 1784 at Great Ellingham (adjacent to both Stowbedon and Rockland All Saints). Mary was less than two years old when her father died, and her mother never remarried - possibly because there was no financial necessity. The Warrens of Great Ellingham were a large and wealthy family with ties to Norwich who seemed to profit at every turn in various trades and land ownership. Susan was one of the heirs to her father Jeffrey Warren's estates at Great Ellingham, and perhaps she was able to live a comfortable existence on this inheritance. It is interesting to note that Mary appears to have wanted to memorialize her parents by using the surnames of her parents as middle names for two of her sons - Charles Warren Clarke Faux, and William Warren Clarke Faux.

ENLISTMENT IN THE ARMY

In 1803 the West Norfolk Militia was embodied in preparation for possible invasion of England by Napoleon's troops. Robert Faux, then 17 years old, must have been one of the first to sign up as he appears on the muster lists as of 11 March of that year when he was registered as a private in the 1st Vacant Company. While it is tempting to conclude that Robert voluntarily joined due to his desire to defend his country against an invader (one possibility), the truth may be somewhat different. When War with France was declared, Parliament ordered an increase in the number of men in uniform, including county militia units. Each parish within a county was required to supply a set number of men for the militia. Men were selected by ballot, which was in essence a form of conscription. Robert's name probably came up in this way and, lacking resources to supply a substitute, he was forced to don the uniform.

By September 1805 Robert's unit was at Dungeness, and from 25 December of that year to 24 March 1806 they were stationed at Blatchington Barracks. The rest of the year was spent at Canterbury Barracks in Kent County. At some point Mary Clarke of Rockland All Saints Parish must have come from Norfolk to Canterbury. Since she had no brothers, and her father had passed away, there seems no other reason for her to be in Kent County other than to be with her boyfriend from back home. On 27 August 1806 Robert obtained a marriage license and married Mary Clarke (both age 20) the same day at St. Mary Northgate Church in Canterbury. At the Shorncliff Barracks on 31 August 1807 Robert volunteered to transfer to the 9th Foot (Infantry) Regiment (East Norfolk), 2nd Battalion (2/9th), for which he received 5 pounds 5 shillings in levey money. It was typical in this era for recruiters to "persuade" selected men from the militia to transfer to line regiments using alcohol and priming the potential recruit with stories of fabled overseas lands. However, since Robert was married at the time, it is unclear as to the motive for the transfer. He must have known that should overseas duty be required, his wife stood a good chance of being sent back home to wait in complete uncertainty until the return (if ever) of her husband. Was it because army life was preferable to that as a labourer, or because of a sense of patriotism and loyalty? At any rate, soon thereafter, on 25 October 1807, he was promoted to the rank of corporal. There were only 3 corporals to every 100 men. This suggests that, in becoming a non - commissioned officer, he as a "cut above the common herd" - possibly because of his behaviour, and certainly because he was literate, since N.C.O.'s were required to be both literate and numerate.

PORTUGAL AND GIBRALTER

After marches around southern England, the regiment marched to Ramsgate and on 17 July 1808 embarked for Portugal, landing at the Bay of Maciera on 19 August. On 21 August the Battle of Vimeiro took place in which the 9th Foot participated.

BATTLE OF VIMIERO: On the 19th Robert's brigade landed on a crescent shaped beach at the mouth of the River Maceira, between Mondego and Lisbon. A short distance inland the river takes a 90 degree turn to the south between two steep ridges. Immediately to the south, on the east side of the river, is a lower round vine and brush eminence called Vimiero Hill. Vimiero village is wedged between this hill and the Eastern Ridge to the north. Among those positioned on Vimiero Hill was the 2nd Battalion of the 9th Foot Regiment. There were over 16,000 British troops commanded by Wellington about to face about 13,000 men of the French army under Junot. At about 9 am clouds of dust were spotted to the east with bayonets glistening in the sun. Of the three French columns, the heaviest was headed for Vimiero Hill from south of east. The 2/9th had 633 men waiting for the assault, positioned behind three battalions and 12 artillery guns at the crest of the hill, and held in reserve to provide support. The French deployed two infantry columns against the hill, with field artillery, plus cavalry to protect the flanks. The second and southern - most column with 1,200 men approached the area where the 2/9th was located. The British 2/97th were the first to contact the French brigade under Charlot and succeeded in dissolving the head of the French column, whereupon the 2/52nd moved on the left flank, and Robert Faux's 2/9th wheeled against the right flank of the French. Panic broke out among the French and they retreated swiftly. They were quickly replaced by two fresh columns. It was the 2/9th who, being then positioned just south east of Vimiero Hill, were first to contact the head of the French column which was composed of a brigade of grenadiers. The 2/9th were supported by the 1/50th to the north, and the 2/97th to the south. At about 200 yards, a relatively long distance, these regiments began a converging fire from their respective angles. The French halted, and the British advanced slowly, firing all the way. In less than two minutes the French brigade disintegrated and their 4 artillery pieces were captured. The same situation prevailed on the field, with the French everywhere beaten by 11 am. Decisions from above, however, kept the British from pursuing their quarry and dealing the final blow. The Battle, however, was significant in that a French army attacking in an open field, outnumbering their enemy, using Napoleon's tactics was soundly defeated - much to the surprise of the French and all Europeans. Concerning the 2/9th, that day they had 4 men killed, plus one lieutenant, one sergeant, and 16 men wounded.

Three days after the Battle of Vimiero Robert was still in the "field opposing the enemy". After a brief stay at the Castle of Belem in the suburbs of Lisbon, Robert and his regiment were assigned to Gibraltar where they arrived in September of that year. In 1809 Robert was at Santarem on the right bank of the River Tagus (a few miles above Lisbon), then at Goimba, Aveino, Ovar, Oporto, Lisbon, and Tancos in the interval between January and June. He may have participated in the effort to push the French from Oporto 20 May, however specific activities of his unit are unclear. What is known for certain is that on 25 March 1809 Robert Faux was promoted to sergeant in Number 9 Company. This rank was, with rare exceptions, as high as an enlisted man could attain in that era and suggests that Robert had substantially impressed his superiors, since he went from private to sergeant in the period of two years. Sergeants at this time were paid 1 shilling 6 3/4 d. per day (1 shilling for a private). Out of this money he had to pay for the meager food he was given (e.g., biscuit and, occasionally, cheese) and for many sundry items such as brick dust and oil to keep his metal accoutrements shiny (plus enough sustenance for his wife and family). With respect to his uniform, as a sergeant Robert would have carried a pike (a 9 foot staff with a spearhead) whereas the privates would have carried the "brown bess" musket. He would also have sported a sword on his left side, and been adorned with a variety of accoutrements such as a knapsack, and canteen (right side). He would have had a large pom pom adorned "shako" (stovepipe hat) with brass plate on his head, an ornate red jacket with pale yellow facings and three stripes on his right sleeve. White breech pants, a red and yellow sash around his waist, and black leather boots would have completed his ensemble. In all, the infantryman's load, including all the items in his kit, totalled 60 pounds. As a sergeant, Robert's role in battle was to direct the line of march as the battalion moved forward, and to use his pike to protect the regimental colours.

In July 1809 Robert and his regiment were stationed at Gibraltar for garrison duties. Other than a brief excursion by ship to Malaga on board the Hydra in 1810, and a similar jaunt to Tarrogonia and Port Mahon in Minorca, Robert appears to have called Gibraltar home until at least 1813 when the regiment was sent back to England. It appears that at least one child was born to Robert and Mary overseas (perhaps many more who died young). William Faux was born sometime in 1812. In regiments sent on active service, only 6 wives per 100 men were allowed to accompany it overseas. The choice was done by lot, and by all accounts it could be a very gut wrenching process. The typical procedure involved husbands and wives assembling in the pay sergeant's room. Tickets marked "to - go" and "not to go" were placed in a hat, then the women came forward in order of seniority to select a ticket. Needless to say, those who drew "not - to - go" tickets would be distraught, and their time until their husband's embarkation would be agonizing. After the departure of their husband, with likely scenes of crying and futile pleading to be allowed to embark, the unlucky wives would be given a cash allotment to enable them to return to their home parish or other place of residence - at that point they were on their own to fend for themselves until the return (if ever) of their husbands. It is not entirely clear into which category Mary (Clarke) Faux fell. The birth of at least one child (William) at a date which appears to predate Robert's return to England, however, argues for the "to - go" scenario.

In April 1813 the regiment was at Canterbury, and on 23 January 1814 Charles Warren Clarke faux was baptised in the same church where his parents, Robert and Mary, were married 8 years earlier. At Chatham, on 11 November 1814, Sgt. Robert Faux of Number 8 Company was discharged from the army.

RETURN TO STOWBEDON

There is nothing to indicate how Robert and family made their way back to their parent's home in Norfolk, but in all likelihood they reached Norfolk sometime in November and initially set up their home in Mary's native parish with Susan (Warren) Clarke, Mary's widowed mother, in the Parish of Rockland All Saints. Next spring, on 30 April 1815, their son William was buried in the churchyard of Rockland All Saints. Soon thereafter Robert and family must have moved one parish to the west to Stow Bedon, Robert's Place of birth. Whether they lived with Robert's parents is unknown. What is known is that on 24 December 1815, at the baptism of son William Warren Clarke Faux (spelled "Fawkes" in the Stow Bedon church register), Robert was recorded as being a "Labourer" - an occupation also given at the baptism of daughter Priscilla in 1818.

Between 1818 and 1820 Robert and Mary must have flirted with non - conformity in religion. The baptismal entry for their next child Ebenezer, on 27 February 1820, is found in the registers of the New Buckenham Methodist Church. Since there may have been a Methodist chapel in Stow Bedon (I saw a small brick building of this description during my 1987 visit), the family may have attended the local Methodist Church for a number of years. The baptisms of sons Emmanuel born in Stow Bedon in 1823, and son Lionel born in 1825, have not been located. The family appears to have returned to the Church of England by 1826 when, on 26 March of that year, their daughter Caroline was baptised in the Shropham Parish Church. This also means that between 1823 and 1826 Robert and family likely moved one parish south to Shropham - at which time his occupation was recorded as "Farmer". Also found in the registers of this church is the baptism of Ellis Cook Faux, the "illegitimate" son of Rebecca Faux. It is likely that Rebecca was another child born to Robert and Mary when they were overseas.

NORWICH

Some time between 1826 and 1835 the Faux family left their Ancestral Breckland home for the provincial capital, Norwich. It is likely that the depression in the agricultural economy had something to do with the move, as did the draw of the big city. Despite the high rate of unemployment among ex - soldiers returning home from the Napoleonic Wars after 1814, Robert seems to have escaped this difficulty - for the first few years at least. By 1816 the grain prices and wages had plummeted and resulted in riots (often targeting threshing machines) in Norfolk. A farm labourer's wages in 1815 was only 7 shillings a week, however at this time and over the ensuing years many of these men lost their employment due to the hiring of children and gangs of women at lower rates. A fresh wave of riots ("Swing Riots") washed across the country in 1830 with labourers demanding higher wages and the abolishment of threshing machines. At this time (1831) approximately one out of eight Norfolk agricultural labourers were unemployed. The mechanization of agriculture meant that families were unable to supplement their starvation level wages with much needed funds during the winter by threshing grain by hand with a flail. Whether Robert left Stow Bedon and Shropham as a direct result of these factors is unknown. They may have had connections in Norwich at the time since Mary's mother Susan (Warren) Clarke was living there when she died in 1821. If he was living in Hellesdon (a suburb of Norwich) at the time, Robert may have participated in an event on 30 October 1830 when a number of concerned people attended a meeting in Norwich to discuss the agricultural situation. An unruly element in the assembled crowd left the meeting and went to Mr. Gowings farm in Hellesdon and demolished his threshing machine. They then returned to Norwich and committed further property damage (e.g., breaking gas lights).

Soon after their arrival in Norwich, son Charles followed his father's path to the British Army by signing up for what was to be a 21 year stint in India. Soon thereafter, in 1837, daughter Priscilla married Edward Austin, giving her father Robert's occupation at the time as a "Labourer", and their residence as Hellesdon which is just outside (north and west of the Medieval city walls) Norwich. In the 1841 census Robert is listed as an "Agricultural Labourer" living on St. Faith's Road in the hamlet of Hellesdon with wife Mary, four of their sons, and their daughter Caroline.

On 23 February 1851 Mary (Clarke) Faux died at the age of 65 of "chronic bronchitis" at St. Augustine Street, St. Augustine Parish, Norwich with her husband Robert at her side. She was buried 7 days later in the churchyard of the Hellesdon Parish Church. The 1851 census of Norwich, taken a few days later, confirms that Robert was living on St. Augustine Street, in an abode with his daughter Caroline, son - in - law Christopher Annison, and grandson William Annison. Robert did not wait long after his wife's death to "tie the knot" again. At age 65, on 16 October 1851, he married Mary Austin (nee Plummer), a widow who was of the same age. The marriage took place in the Registry Office. The reason for not marrying in the parish church is unknown. Those who resorted to a civil ceremony often did so in order to have a measure of privacy. Possibly there was the disapproval of the families to contend with (he didn't exactly wait the "approved" one year mourning period before remarrying), or possibly the fact that Robert appears to have married his daughter's mother - in - law could have some bearing.

In the above census record Robert is noted as a "Victualer", and as a "Publician" in the marriage record. Some time between 1849 when both sons Ebenezer and Emmanuel gave their father's occupation as "Labourer" at the time of their respective marriages, and 1851 when he is recorded as applying for a licence to sell liquor at the Bushel (27 St. Augustine Street), Robert seems to have effected a major career change. At a relatively advanced age of 65, Robert either owned or leased the Bushel from 1851 until at least 1854. Soon thereafter, Robert's son Charles, absent for 21 years, returned to Norwich. One wishes that Robert's reaction to this event would have been a matter of record, but we can only speculate.

By 1861, according to the census of that year, Robert had returned to his former occupation of "Agricultural Labourer", and was living with his second wife Mary at Whalebone Square on St. Clement road, St. Clement's Parish, Norwich. As a member of the labouring classes of Norwich, Robert would likely have lived in cramped substandard housing, with a number of families sharing a water pump often located in a churchyard or being a shallow well (the sanitary disadvantages should be obvious). If piped water was available, it was only put through the system at certain times of the day and week. All the water before 1850 came directly from the river, which was then little more than an open sewer. the "working class quarters were mostly to be found in narrow streets and lanes where courts and yards were linked by a single opening or doorway, some three feet wide which led into the adjoining thoroughfares". In these districts the drainage was poor with sewage and filth an ever present part of life. the waste was often just put in a pit. The excess was sometimes sold to farmers when sufficient quantities had accumulated. the water closet privies, where they existed, were usually placed away from the house as far as possible, but flushed their contents into the river.

There is, however, clear evidence that Robert had an additional (and ultimately retirement) job as a schoolmaster. When Robert registered the death of his wife in 1851 he stated that he was a "Schoolmaster", which is the same occupation given by the informant when his own death was registered in 1869. Robert was probably a schoolmaster in one of the so - called "Dame Schools" in Norwich at the time. According to one author, "A 'school' might consist of ten or twelve children in a back room, with perhaps a shop at the front and the 'schoolmaster' divided his time between the two. Very often little more than babysitting facilities were provided. There was no inspection of premises, or any examination of the master or mistresses's fitness to teach. Teachers were often cripples or elderly persons who could not cope with manual work. The limited remuneration offered by teaching the children of the poor could not attract teachers of ability."

Also during the interval between 1861 and 1869 Robert moved to nearby Sun Lane where he died 26 July 1869 at the age of 83 of "senile decay" with Ann Woodward (relationship unknown) being present at the death. Robert was buried in the churchyard of Hellesdon Church where lay the remains of his first wife. Available evidence suggests that all subsequent residents of Norwich with the surname Faux were descendants of Robert Faux.

Notes for Charles Warren Clarke Faux:

EARLY LIFE

Charles Warren Clarke Faux was baptised 23 January 1814 at St. Mary Northgate, Canterbury, Kent County, England, the son of Sgt. Robert Faux and Mary Clarke. As noted in the biography of his parents, the names Warren and Clarke come from the surnames of Charles' mother's parents, however it is unknown how the name Charles came into the Faux family. What is evident, however, is that it was a fateful choice since from that point on the name Charles came to be perhaps the most popular or common forename in the family (often combined with William). Although both of his parents were born in Norfolk, Charles was born in Kent County because his father was at that time still in military service - having returned to England from postings in Gibraltar and Portugal.

The first few months of Charles' life were spent at Canterbury and at Chatham then, in November of 1814, his father was discharged from the army and the family moved back to Norfolk. Their first destination seems to have been the Clarke home in Rockland All Saints parish, then, in 1815, to Robert's home parish of Stow Bedon. It appears that Charles, like his father before him, at some point during his childhood attended school since he was able to read and write (unless "home schooled"). None of his brothers and sisters, however, seem to have been afforded this opportunity since they used a mark to sign their names. Charles grew up in Stow Bedon and surrounding parishes with at least 8 siblings who survived infancy. In all probability Charles worked as an agricultural labourer until, about 1830, he and his family picked up stakes and moved to Hellesdon on the western outskirts of Norwich.

Meanwhile, his bride to be, Mary Ann Williams, was experiencing a very very different life. About the only commonality at this point was a link to the military. On 18 May 1827 Mary Ann was born at Cape Town, Cape of Good Hope, South Africa to Sergeant William Williams of the 55th Regiment of Foot (born 1795, Bristol, Gloucestershire, England) and Mary (surname unknown). She was baptised 3 June 1827 at the Military Chapel of St. Georges Cathedral in Cape Town. Mary Ann had one sibling, and older sister Eleanor who was born 20 March 1825. Before Mary Ann had turned two years old, her mother Mary (age 27) died and was buried 8 May 1829 at St. Georges Cathedral. At this time Mary Ann's father appears to have had a variety of duties (some of these assignments may have been due to the reality of him having to raise two infant motherless daughters). He was, for example, a schoolmaster and the Deputy Adjunct General's clerk, "reduced" to private, transferred between HM 49th and HM 55th Regiments, and seems to have been bounced from pillar to post. In August 1830 (at about the time the Faux family was moving to Norwich), Williams and his two daughters boarded a ship for Madras, India. From there Williams (whether his daughters accompanied him is unknown) marched to Ballary, saw action against the Rajah of Coorg, and eventually returned to Bellary until, on 23 November 1836, he arrived in Secunderabad. He was there until, on 13 November 1837, he died. Mary Ann was only 9 years old, and she and her sister were now orphans. The military records indicate that William's pay was put in trust for his children. From that point on the two children followed the Regiment in its perambulations first to Madras, then Fort William, Calcutta on 28 October 1840. It is likely that the girls stayed here during the time that the Regiment went on duty to China and other destinations. At any rate, Mary Ann was living at Ft. William when she married Charles Faux.

ENLISTMENT IN THE ARMY

It is unknown why Charles "took the King's shilling" (signed up for military service), but reasonable speculations include the possibility that this was preferable to working as an agricultural labourer and likely unemployment. Also, it is possible that his father's stories of exotic and fabled lands that he saw during the Napoleonic Wars had an effect on an impressionable youngster. It may be wondered whether his father told him of the "down side", like the use of the cat - o - nine - tails for even minor infractions. This is precisely what happened when one John Ryder spoke to his father about joining in 1844 (according to the diary of the former). Perhaps the more Robert spoke against a career in the army, the more convinced Charles became that it was what he wanted to do (reactance effect in psychological terms). Other than these reasons, other documented reasons for joining up include those who "enlisted because they were idle and considered a soldier's life an easy one; then there were the bad characters and criminals, and discontented and restless, and those perverse sons who seek to grieve their parents".

The usual recruitment procedure at this time involved putting posters, which extolled the virtues of army life, in convenient places. A recruiting sergeant resplendent in a fancy red uniform would then frequent pubs and other gathering places, and often with alcohol to smooth the way, he would get the potential recruit drunk then place a shilling (token of his acceptance as a recruit) into the willing or not so willing hand of the young man. In this way many a young man was signed on for life service (the only length of service offered at this time). At any rate, Charles enlisted 18 April 1835 in Norwich with the 62nd Foot (Wiltshire) Infantry Regiment.

Robert's response to his son's enlistment is not a matter of record. John Ryder's diary, however, shows that in a somewhat similar situation, his (John's) father initially made a fuss but soon resolved himself to the situation to the extent that his parting words to his son were to, "be a good soldier, and never desert my colours".

Charles probably met up with the recruiting sergeant of the 62nd Foot at a local pub early in May. There, with others that had been recruited in the interval, he would have begun the march south. Charles joined the Regiment 21 May 1835, and was in hospital at the Chatham depot two days later, likely for his inspection by the regimental doctor and for suiting up in his uniform. Here he would have been examined by a medical officer and pronounced fit for service, then taken before a magistrate for attestation. Here he would have sworn that he enlisted voluntarily, and would have answered questions about his age, trade, etc. When Charles answered as to his willingness to join, the magistrate would then have read him the articles of war concerning desertion, etc., the administered the oath of allegiance. Soon thereafter Charles would have received a bounty of 3 pounds, 10 shillings in cash, and the rest to be applied to purchase clothes, etc. Presumably the next month would have been spent in basic training, where Charles would have learned the drills and manoeuvres expected of a British soldier. The routine here has been described by one MacMullin, where a new soldier would arise at 5 am, make his "toilet", then begin drill at 6 am. At 7:45 am the men were dismissed for breakfast; 10 am to 12 pm more drill; then free time until tattoo (if not on guard duty). Reading, walking, and drinking beer (not necessarily in that order) were common amusements.

ON BOARD SHIP - THE EAST INDIES

Charles embarked with his Regiment for Madras India on 3 July 1835. These voyages aboard troop ships were generally characterized by indescribable wretchedness. The trip took 124 days to India, with one stop at or near Cape Town, South Africa (these were the days before the Suez Canal was built). However, fear of desertion meant that the enlisted men were not allowed to disembark from the ship. The food and water were usually spoiled and unwholesome, the conditions in the hold were crowded (sleeping was on hammocks) and filthy, and fever and scurvy were ever present dangers. Of course sea sickness would aggravate the picture. Perhaps during the first storm at sea Charles had thoughts similar to those recorded by one John Shipp. He focused wistfully on the white cliffs of England and the very real possibility that he would never see the shores of his native land again. One of the ways used to pass the time on board ship was to play a game of "Crown and Anchor" with the sailors (who typically found the soldiers to be real easy marks).

Generation 14 (con't)

Private Charles Faux remained at Madras until March 1836 when he was transported to Moulmein Burma - remaining there to protect the town from the forces of the Old King of Burma until 31 August 1840. One wonders how Charles would have passed his time during these years. Typically soldiers amused themselves in rather standard ways. Often a monthly visit to one of the army supervised brothels (called "rags" in India) was part of the routine. Similarly gambling (e.g. "House" which was a variety of bingo), and drinking were common diversions. Perpetual drunkenness was characteristic of this era. Not only did the soldiers have their daily rum ration, but they would spend considerable time swilling beer in their canteens. In the caste system that was the army, the gentlemen officers drank together in their clubs, the rankers drank in their own canteens, and the sergeants had their own mess - they didn't drink with the privates. Other diversions included tattooing, boxing, wrestling, and sometimes stage entertainments produced by the rankers. Meals were mundane at best. At 7:30 am and 12:30 pm the two main meals were served. This would consist of 3/4 pounds of meat, a pound of bread, and a pound of potatoes. For this fine fare 6 pence per day was deducted from each soldier's pay. Tea was then, as now, at 4:00 pm; and in the evening a visit to the canteen relieved the hum drum of the barracks.

Charles sailed in September 1840 for Calcutta, arriving at Fort William in that city by October. The remainder of his stint in India involves a series of moves across India and Pakistan for 15 more years. The highlights will be presented below.

INDIA WITH THE 62ND FOOT

The 62nd began a month long march to Hararibagh in the Hills of Bihar on 5 November 1840, returning to Calcutta in July of 1841 - first at Camp Soorigpoora then from November 1841 to July 1842 at Fort William. During this latter interval two important events occurred. First, on 7 January 1842 Charles was promoted to the rank of corporal and was given a good conduct badge - setting the stage for the next event. On 15 March 1842 the 28 year old Charles Faux married 14 year old Mary Ann Williams. Charles would have required the permission of his commanding officer in order to marry. The latter's decision was usually based on rank (e.g., Charles was a corporal so was more eligible than a private), and whether the candidate had a good conduct badge (as Charles did) and some savings.

On 11 August 1842 the 62nd left Calcutta and proceeded by boat up the Ganges toward Dinapore. En route, on 6 September, a violent storm hit the convoy capsizing boats and drowning many soldiers. From 1 October 1842 to November 1844 the Regiment remained at Dinapore. In December they began their march to Ambala along the Grand Trunk Road, reaching Delhi in February 1845. Since the Sikhs were giving every indication of mounting a major offensive the troops were sent to Ludhiana, then to Ferozepore near the Sutlej River at the frontier of Sikh territory where they arrived at the end of March. By May barracks had been built for the soldiers, on a sand plain without any trees or grass, a mile from town - they would have remained in tents until that time. The married couples and their children lived in the barracks with the single men. Their only privacy was to be located in a corner with sheets and blankets slung over ropes to screen them off from the teeming mass of people and pets (e.g., mongoose, chickens, and rabbits being popular). The environment was anything but optimal. Here they, and their children, would have been exposed to the, "habitual use of blasphemous and obscene language". The soldier's hard swearing was often in English and Hindustani. The Indian words other than of the "foul" variety were also introduced into the language of those who served there. For example, "wallah" was a term for anyone in charge of something. In the barracks one also would have heard the usual English expressions such as "muckers" when a soldier referred to his pals or buddies.

In the month of June hot weather arrived, and there was an outbreak of cholera. This is likely what caused the death of Charles and Mary Ann's first known child Mary who was buried at Meerut. Later in 1845, 21 to 22 December, the Battle of Ferozeshah took place against the Sikh army with Corporal Charles Faux as a participant.

BATTLE OF FERZESHAH

Immediately prior to the battle, the 62nd was stationed at Ferozepore with seven regiments of Native Infantry, plus assorted units of artillery and cavalry; and to add to the exotic tapestry of the place, there were camels and elephants used for transportation purposes constantly milling about. After the Battle of Moodkee on 18 December, the Sikh army retired to the village of Ferozshah, between Moodkee and Ferozepore on the route to Lahore. At 8 am of 21 December 600 men of the 62nd under Sir John Littler of the Bengal Army marched south and east from Ferozepore. They were in full dress but were able to link up with other units by 12:30 pm at Shukroor, five miles southwest of Ferozeshah. The British had about 18,000 troops (mostly sepoy or native infantry). They were to face about 30,000 seasoned Sikh troops with supporting artillery. The Sikhs were entrenched in a horseshoe formation (facing the British) along a high embankment around the village of Ferozeshah. There was about 300 yards of open ground between the Sikh lines and the jungle scrub which extended about 1000 yards to the British lines. At about 4 pm the British artillery opened fire against their much superior Sikh counterparts. Then the Division including the 62nd, who were on the British left flank south and west of the Sikhs, were ordered to attack - but rematurely. Thus the 62nd (who had removed the white covers of their shakos) on the right, and the 12th Native Infantry on the left, were completely exposed on both flanks. The 12th Native unit, and one other immediately behind, fell back leaving the 62nd virtually alone against the full weight of the Sikh army. All during their advance through the jungle the 62nd was peppered with constant bombardment of round shot and shell. Still, they went forward, emerging into the open ground without any support. They were soon met with a hail of grape and cannister shot and had the Sikh cavalry nipping at their left flank. For 20 minutes they continued to fight toward the Sikh lines, even though by then half of the Regiment were casualties. Most of the Regiment then halted and began firing, with only some of their number being able to reach the Sikh fortifications and the sword wielding Sikh soldiers. The men were exhausted from the arduous advance and a lack of water. For 5 or 6 minutes what was left of the Regiment continued firing. When their commander, Reed, ordered the charge most were physically unable to comply (many were wounded; many were recovering from cholera; they had marched 9 hours in the sun without food or water). The men agreed to hold their ground but couldn't charge. Therefore Reed ordered them to retire, which they did in good order. The Regiment suffered 281 rank and file out of 580 as casualties (97 killed, 184 wounded). Clearly Corporal Charles Faux was lucky to come away from this encounter intact. That evening the 62nd used their hands and bayonets to dig trenches in the sandy soil near the bodies of their fallen comrades, who were scattered all about. They spent a night which was probably mixed with feelings of relief at being alive, and horror at the cacophony around them (e.g., moans of the wounded; Sikh guns). The next morning the bulk of the British army succeeded in breaching the Sikh entrenchments and capturing the artillery - their enemies retreating toward the Sutlej River. The 62nd then moved forward along their previous line of march, reaching Ferozeshah to find the Sikh cavalry and supporting artillery appearing on the horizon. One of the 62nd's duties at this time was to escort the commanders to a small mud fort immediately north of Ferozeshah. The Sikh artillery withdrew about an hour later, followed by their cavalry. The 62nd then followed the retreating cavalry, meeting the main body of Sikhs (including fresh reinforcements) whereupon the rest of the British army came forward setting the stage for another engagement. The casualties were light this time as the Sikhs were very ineffective in their use of muskets, and in the afternoon a British cavalry charge dispersed their enemy who fled across the Sutlej River. The 62nd went back to their camp of the previous night - some of them being assigned to "clear the village" or wounded Sikhs. On the 23rd the Regiment buried their dead in a mass grave, and were able to "enjoy" their first rations since they had left their barracks in ferozepore. Their only sustenance until then had apparently been contaminated water, plus limes and black sugar which were scavenged from the Sikh camp. On the 24th of December, the remenants of the 62nd returned to their barracks in Ferozepore.

A few days after the Battle of Ferozeshah, on 30 December, Charles Faux was promoted to sergeant. After moves to a variety of camps (e.g., Rodawolo, Nihalkee) the 62nd joined other contingents of the British Army to again face the Sikhs at the Battle of Sobraon on 10 February 1846. Again, Charles Faux was there, and eventually received a medal for his part in the Sutlej Campaign against the Sikhs.

BATTLE OF SOBRAON

Sobraon is about 15 miles up the east side of the Sutlej River from Ferozepore. Here the Sikhs had 35,000 men and 67 artillery pieces in a well - fortified position. Among the 16,000 British troops were the 62nd, who were positioned in the third of four brigades of three regiments each.

Generation 14 (con't)

The brigades were composed of mixed Native and British infantry, to the left (from the British vantagepoint) of the Sikh entrenchments. The battle began in the middle of the night on 10 February 1846 (at 1 am breakfast and the rum rations were given) with the 62nd advancing to capture a ridge 2500 yards in front of the Sikh defences on which was sited the hamlet of Rhodawala and containing Sikh outposts. They then occupied a nearby nulla (dry river bed) and awaited the signal to advance. At about 6:30 am the mist lifted and the British artillery began pounding the Sikh positions in their camp, and their bridge of boats on the River. The Sikhs were unaware that the 62nd were hidden nearby and had captured their outpost sites, so were taken by surprise by the artillery fire (i.e., they had no advance warning). The Sikhs soon regrouped and some of their shots inadvertently reached the 62nd's nullah (doing no damage). At 9 o'clock the 62nd was ordered to charge. They encountered heavy fire from the Sikh batteries, but were quickly able to penetrate the defensive outer ring. Soon the 62nd were compressed with the masses of other British units, all with bayonets striking at the Sikh defenders with their fearsome "tulwar" curved swords. The sappers succeeded in breaching the interior defences allowing the cavalry units to enter the fray and carve an opening for the infantry, who in turn performed their grim task - slowly pushing the Sikhs to the Sutlej River at the point of the bayonet. By 11 am, 10,000 Sikhs were casualties, and were thoroughly defeated. the 62nd remained within the former Sikh position until dark, being served their "grog" ration there. In terms of casualties, the 62nd suffered one officer and three other ranks dead, and one officer and 43 rankers wounded. Again, Corporal Faux was fortunate to have avoided being at least maimed.

In February Charles was with his unit at Lahore (in what is today Pakistan) for the signing of a treaty between the British and the Sikhs. On 23 March 1846 the 62nd left Lahore, crossed the River at Nuggar, and marched down to Ferozepore where they camped under canvas until they were sent in October to reinforce Lahore. John Ryder has described the conditions of marching across sandy deserts and plains in the Punjab during the Sikh Wars. The winds would often drive clouds of sand into the faces of the soldiers making it impossible to see anything in the darkened air. Men would succumb to the ill effects of these circumstances combined with a lack of water and many had to be buried in unmarked graves alongside the line of march. Only the periodic sounding of "The Close" by the bugler kept the regiment from drifting off in all directions. These dust storms were sometimes followed by violent thunderstorms to all contrast to the conditions of indescribable horror.

On 30 November, at Camp Jelor, Sgt. Charles Faux volunteered to serve with the 53rd Regiment of Foot instead of returning to England with the 62nd. The reason for not returning to England at this time is not a matter of record. While bounty money may have been an inducement, as a sergeant this decision cost him his stripes as he was required to start again at the rank of private. While publications relating to the regiment have been inspected, as yet the muster lists have not been searched.

Concerning the uniform that Charles Faux would have worn during service in the Sikh Wars, he would have sported an "Albert" shako hat with a white covering and the tuft removed. For parade and inspection purposes, Charles would have worn a red coat and grey cloth trowsers. While marching and during battle he would have been found in more comfortable cotton trowsers (perhaps blue in colour), a short shell jacket (white in hot season), and black lace boots. His weapon would likely have been a smoothbore pattern Minie percussion cap musket (when a sergeant). As a sergeant, Charles Faux also would have worn a solid red sash.

INDIA WITH THE 53RD FOOT

During 1847 the 53rd Regiment was at Ferozepore, and on 18 July of that year daughter Ellen was baptised here. On 3 January 1848 Charles Faux was again promoted to corporal. The next month the Regiment went to Lahore and occupied the barracks in the HazareeBagh part of the City - providing sentry duty. On 17 September they occupied the Palace and provided guard for the Kohinoor diamond (later to be among the Crown Jewels of Queen Victoria). In February 1849 the Regiment went to Ramnugger to join the Army of the Punjab. Charles would later receive a medal to commemorate his role in the Punjab campaigns - specifically for the support at Goojerat. In March the bulk of the Regiment arrived at Rawal Pindie, to be joined by the rest in June. On 11 August 1849 Charles received his promotion to the rank of sergeant. It is likely that the women were left at Lahore at this time as Charles' son Charles Warren was baptised there on 3 September. By 15 October 1850 the families of the soldiers had joined the Regiment at Rawal Pindee where son Charles Warren was buried on this date. One year later, on 23 November 1851, daughter Caroline was baptised at the same place. Seven days later disturbances among the Muslim tribes at the Khyber Pass resulted in the 53rd marching 91 miles to Peshawur - in 8 days. While stationed here daughter Caroline was buried 19 August 1852 - apparently the last Faux to leave their bones in India or Pakistan.

Almost a year later, on 10 July 1853, a happier event occurred - son Francis Warren was baptised at Peshawur. He was the first of their children known to survive infancy, and to bear descendants who survive to the present day.

In 1854 the Regiment moved to Dugshai. On 13 October 1855 Sgt. Charles Faux had his pension hearing where it was noted that "his character has been good. In possession of two good conduct badges when promoted Sergeant". The medical officer also noted that Charles was suffering from, "failing strength & activity" and was "unfit for further military duty, owing to debility resulting from a long service of over twenty years chiefly in a tropical climate. His disability has not been caused in any degree by intemperance, or other vices". Fortunately his "disability" did not affect his ability to continue fathering children. We are also given a description of the man at this time: 5 feet 8 1/2 inches tall with dark brown hair and grey eyes and a fair complexion. He was also recommended for the "Long Service and Good Conduct Medal" (with a gratuity of 10 pounds) for his 21 years of service to Queen and country. This item was known to the soldiers by the disparaging nickname of "rooti gong" (round loaf in Hindi) because "it came with the bread ration, and was a reward for eighteen years of undetected crime". Charles was issued this medal on 8 March 1856. At this time he would also have possessed his Sutlej Campaign Medal engraved with "Ferozeshah", and with a bar embossed with "Sobraon" to put on the ribbon, as well as the Punjab Campaign Medal. The present whereabouts of these medals is unknown.

Toward the end of the year 1855 the Regiment moved to Dum - dum just northeast of Calcutta; then in early 1856 occupied Fort William. Soon thereafter Sgt. Charles Faux and family must have sailed for England. Perhaps his arrival there was similar to that described by one MacMullen. The latter and the remnants of his regiment anchored at Gravesend whereupon a "cornopaeian player" on board a river steamer regaled them with "Home, Sweet Home" and "Auld Lang Syne" resulting in loud cheers from the returning soldiers. On disembarking the next day some of the soldiers knelt and kissed the ground. They then marched "silently through the gateway of Chatham barracks",

Charles was discharged as a Chelsea Out - Pensioner at Chatham on 5 August 1856, with his stated destination given as Norwich.

RETURN TO NORWICH

It is interesting to speculate on the reunion Charles had with his father and siblings after a continuous absence of 21 years. It is probable that Charles and family took the train back to Norwich and would have debarked at either Victoria Station on the western limits of Norwich, or the Thorpe Station just east of Norwich - both linked to London. Perhaps his experiences were similar to those of John Ryder who returned home to Twyford, Leicestershire via train after the Sikh Wars. He first bought a suit of clothes then went to a pub near his parent's house - not wanting to disturb them since they were not expecting his return. Although some of his friends were there, not one recognized him even though they were chatting with him for some time. When his father arrived at the pub the same situation prevailed. Ryder even had two drinks with his father without the latter showing any awareness of who his drinking companion was. Ryder then said, "Well then, father, so you do not know me". Everyone was quite overcome with the emotion of the situation and the whole village was abuzz. The main reason given for the lack of recognition was Ryder's dark complexion due to the many years in India. Similarly Charles had left his friends and family when a young man, and returned 21 years later a middle aged man. It is therefore likely that this veteran would have borne little resemblance to the rosy cheeked youth they all remembered.

Charles may have lodged with relatives for a time, however with his pension of 1 shilling, 10 d. per day and army savings he may have had a fair start toward finding his own residence. It is interesting to speculate as to Mary Ann's reaction to England. She had been born in South Africa, raised in India, and had spent 14 married years travelling across the breadth of India and Pakistan. It must have amounted to considerable culture shock.

PORTRAIT PAINTED

Soon after returning to Norwich, at some time before November 1857, Charles enrolled in the West Norfolk Militia as a sergeant. Likely he was so socialized to the military it was "in his blood" so he returned at the first opportunity to a known role which would satisfy his social needs and allow some much needed cash to supplement his pension. Two children were born to Charles and Mary Ann in the interval between 1856 and 1860, Robert born in 1857, and Charles Williams born in 1859. A very significant happening in 1860 was the role as sitters or models played by Charles Senior, Mary Ann, and young Robert for the painting that Frederick Sandys entitled, "Autumn". Their involvement is chronicled in a manuscript which is filed at the Norwich Castle Museum, therefore only a few details will be included here. Charles, his wife, and child posed on the east bank of the Wensum River in Norwich with the Bishopsgate Bridge in the background. Charles is suited in his military "undress" (for casual wear) uniform with ribbons from all three medals won in India sewn on the left breast of his red tunic. The portrait shows Charles as being somewhat bald with a fair bit of grey hair, a prominent nose of the type still seen in descendants to this day, a ruddy red cheeked complexion, muttonchops, and a moustache. He appears to have a slender but sturdy build. In all likelihood the painter Sandys was awestruck by the old soldier bedecked in ribbons with his young wife and children as they walked near his (Sandys) father's residence nearby. It is also probable that Sandys Senior knew the Fauxes, however, the important point is that a permanent visual record

Notes for Mary Ann Williams:
SERGEANT IN THE MILITIA

In terms of his involvement with the West Norfolk Militia, Charles Faux was first listed 10 November 1857 at Norwich and Chester when he was recorded as a "Volunteer Sergeant". The regiment was embodied at this time because there were increasing fears of a military conflict with France. Between January and March of 1858 Charles was again at Chester, and was at Chester and Norwich in the muster return for April 1858. Charles Faux is next recorded in July 1859 at Norwich when he was listed as a "Permanent Sjt.". The pay lists for the now disembodied militia unit note that in 1862 and 1867 he was an "Acting Hospital Sgt.", and in the lists to 31 March 1867 he was described as a "Hospital Sergeant". The later (more recent) records have not been searched.

LAST YEARS

Concerning residence, son Robert was born in 1857 on Philadelphia Lane in St. Clement Parish (New Catton, Hellesdon), where Charles's brother Ebenezer was apparently living. The 1861 census shows the family living on Pottergate Street in St. Gregory's Parish of Norwich. The Norwich City Directory of 1868 gives the specific house location as number 102, and Charles' occupation as "serjeant militia hospital". Two more children were born between 1860 and 1870, son Alfred in 1863 (buried in Norwich City Cemetery same year), and daughter Amy Williams. By 1871 the family had returned to Philadelphia Lane (where they were residing during the census of that year). It was here on 21 August 1873 at the relatively young age of 46 years old, that Mary Ann (Williams) Faux, with her husband present, died of heart disease. She was buried 4 days later in an unmarked grave in the Norwich City Cemetery. Somewhat over a year later, Charles, then aged 60, married Hannah Maria Tann (nee Futter) a widow, at St. Clement's Parish Church. At some point in or before 1879 Charles moved to Old Palace Road in Heigham just outside Norwich. It was here on 27 October 1879, in the presence of his wife, that Charles died at age 65 of "general decay", and was buried 7 days later in an unmarked grave in Norwich City Cemetery - in a location separate from the site where his first wife was laid to rest.

In addition to the various paintings and sketches of Charles (with wife Mary Ann and son Robert), identical photos of him as an elderly man sporting a long beard and a medal in the shape of a cross around his neck found their way into the collections of the family of Sue Bell in Australia, and Robin Faux in the USA. Descendants Charles Faux and Mary Ann Williams are found on three continents (Europe, Australia, and North America), and four countries (England, Australia, Canada, and the United States).

Notes for Robert Faux:
EARLY LIFE

Robert Faux was born on 28 October 1857 on Philadelphia Lane in St. Clement's Parish of New Catton, Hellesdon, Norwich. He was the first child of Charles and Mary Ann (Williams) Faux born in Norwich after their return from India. He was doubtless named after his grandfather Robert Faux III. The name had been passed down in the family since at least the 1600s. Robert had at least one brother and two sisters who died in India or Pakistan, and a younger brother Alfred who died as an infant when Robert was 6 years of age. In terms of siblings who lived to adulthood, Robert had one older brother Francis Warren (born in Pakistan), a younger brother Charles Williams, and a younger sister Amy Williams who were all born in Norwich.

It appears that Robert lived with his parents on Philadelphia Lane, Pottergate Street, and Philadelphia Lane again prior to marrying. He had his paternal grandfather and at least 3 uncles, one aunt, and a number of cousins living nearby. His childhood can only be wondered at, however his father's involvement in the army (militia) would have brought him into close contact with this element - a rather course lot perhaps. In addition, his mother was new to England and may have been very dissatisfied with her circumstances which would in turn have affected Robert's development. Unfortunately there is a paucity of data to use in confirming these hypotheses.

In 1860, when 3 years old, Robert sat with his parents as a model (sitter) for the painting by Frederick Sandys entitled, "Autumn". It shows a little boy with fine wavy hair, reddish blonde in colour, and light blue or grey eyes, cradled in his mother's arms and staring at his father. This is the only known image of Robert to survive. Despite the fact that pictures of his two brothers and his sister have been passed down in their respective families, it appears that if there were pictures of Robert they discarded by his children. Support for this scenario will be outlined later in this biography.

Robert Faux was in school for an indeterminate length of time. In the 1871 census, taken while the family was living on Philadelphia Lane, Robert, age 13, was noted as being a "scholar". It is probable that he left school the next year (age 14 being the limit for most English youth) and obtained training (apprenticeship) as a journeyman bricklayer - a trade he would keep all his life. When he was 16 his mother died and his father remarried a year later. How this situation affected Robert is entirely unknown.

Robert's future bride, Emma Jane Sexton, was born on 2 April 1857 on Mill Street, Lakenham, Norwich to Henry Fisher Sexton (born 8 October 1832 St. John Timberhill Parish, Norwich; died 15 December 1897, 20 Golden Dog Lane in Norwich) and Elizabeth Green (baptised 19 May 1833 St. Michael at Thorne Parish, Norwich; died 31 October 1914, 75 Bakers Road in Norwich). The couple were married on 15 December 1851 at the Register Office in Norwich. At some point the family moved to St. Clement's Parish in Norwich where Henry Fisher Sexton established his shoemanufacturing business along the shores of the Wensum River - and the fortunes of business smiled on Henry. It is fortunate that down through the years one picture of Emma Jane Sexton has managed to survive.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

At some point Robert met and courted Emma Jane Sexton who he married at the St. Clement's Parish Church on 20 January 1879. Both were 22 years old and were residing in that parish. It is unclear as to the social status of Emma Jane when she married Robert. She was then a "machinist" and her father Henry Fisher Sexton was a "shoemaker". In a few years Henry Fisher Sexton would "make it big" and be propelled to a very high social ranking such that by the time of his death in 1897 he owned a 4 story factory for his boot and shoe manufacturing establishment, and employed an incredible 1000 persons - a sizeable percentage of the population of Norwich. He was among the wealthy industrialists of Norwich. It is quite likely that Robert, a bricklayer of humble origins, may have been adversely affected by the good fortunes of the Sexton family in that it meant that he and his wife were light years apart in terms of social class (a matter of some concern in those times). This may have set the stage for future problems. He was, however, a witness at the marriage of his brother - in - law Henry Walter Sexton on 18 January 1880 at St. Clement's Parish Church. Also, then, as today, the loss of a child could put a strain on a marriage and could push a person toward the self - destructive lifestyle that was to characterize Robert's future years.

The first child born to the couple was a daughter Beatrice Emma, born 22 Septmeber 1880; and second child, Charles William arrived on 22 January 1883, both born in Hellesdon, Norwich. Tragedy was to soon to befall this family. First, Charles died in the same year he was born; and Beatrice Emma died 25 February 1885 - in her fifth year. While it was not unexpected to lose a child (Charles) in the first year of life in those times; it must have been devastating to watch someone who was so far along in development sicken and die of "sloughing of the throat and scarlet fever". The next two children born survived to adulthood - Charles Willam born 14 May 1885 in Hellesdon; and Claud born 4 Rose Terrace, Philadelphia Lane, New Catton, Hellesdon, Norwich on 22 November 1886. One more child was born to the couple, Arthur, born 19 October 1892 on Albany Road, St. Clement's Parish, Norwich - who died the same year.

THE RIFT

While the written records are silent, it would appear that Robert at some point became a heavy drinker and may, during episodes of drinking, have been prone to behaving badly. Ultimately, for this and perhaps other reasons, a wedge was driven between Robert and his wife and children.

It is known that in 1901, after 22 years of marriage, Emma Jane wrote a will instructing her brothers as executors to ensure that any money to which she was entitled as a member of the Sexton family be used to pay for her funeral expenses, and the rest put in trust for her two children. Reading between the lines, it appears that Emma Jane had separated from Robert by this time and wanted to ensure that her boys would be properly looked after. Clearly she wanted to shut out her husband from any claim to her money - and therefore she did not trust that her husband would behave responsibly in this capacity. It is unknown from the records whether Emma lived always, occasionally, or never with her husband at this time. During the 1901 Census, he and Emma with sons Charles (a Clerk in Shoe Factory), and Claud (a Grocer Clerk) were residing together at 33 Albany Road (the transcriber of the census recorded their surname as "Fause") and City directories indicate that in 1896, 1900, and 1908 Robert was living at 33 Albany Road in the New Catton District of Norwich, and that by 1914 Robert and Emma had separate residences at 14 and 13 Denmark Road respectively. The close proximity (across the road) suggests some sort of partial reconcilliation at least.

In 1907 son Claud left Norwich for Canada - never to return. Claud never spoke of his father, and, while he kept a picture of his mother, he did not have one of his father. It was clear to all his descendants in Canada that when Claud left, although he continued to correspond with his mother and brother, he had completely severed all ties with his father.

On 4 March 1917 Emma Jane (Sexton) Faux died at 13 Denmark Road aged 59. Her cause of death was "stricture of the oesophagus and pulmonary congestion". Her sister Elizabeth Edwards was with her at the time. Emma Jane was buried with her parents in the Rosary Cemetery in Norwich, and a very large monument marks their resting place. It is noteworthy that in the obituary notice printed in the "Eastern Daily Press" of Norwich, her father's name is given, as well as the names of her sons, but there is no mention of her husband (although alive) - clear evidence of the rift in the family at this time.

LAST YEARS

Robert's life during his last years is totally obscure. By 1925 his son Charles William was living in the house Robert had formerly occupied at 14 Denmark Road. Where Robert was living (most likely boarding) is unknown until 12 February 1930 when he was admitted to Doughty's Hospital. The criteria for admission to this facility was that, "almspeople shall be poor persons of good character", and be nominated by someone involved with the charity. Inmates were to be 60 years of age, and typically were individuals who had fallen on hard times. Robert was nominated by J.F. Henderson who was then chairman of the charity. The building where Robert stayed was built between 1688 and 1694 - being a two story structure, four sides around a courtyard, with 8 almshouse apartments on each side. Little is known of Robert's life here. He was allowed a stipend of 3 shillings a day. The matron ("Head Nurse") at the time, who would have more or less run the institution, was a Mrs. Oliver. In the records of this hospital a blank is left under "Next of Kin" - despite the fact that his son Charles William was living nearby. Robert died there, in Room 9 (designated as Room 11 in Robert's day) over a year later. On 31 August 1931 Robert died of "mitral disease of the heart". The person with him at the time of death was Herbert F. Faux, his nephew (father of Sheila, David F., and Christine). Robert was laid to rest 6 days later in an unmarked grave in the Norwich City Cemetery - a stark contrast to the grandure which characterizes the final resting place of his wife. A very sad ending indeed.

Notes for Emma Jane Sexton:

On 28th June 1901 "Emma Jane Faux of 40 Magdalen road in the County of the City of Norwich the wife of Robert Faux Bricklayer wrote her will. She appointed "my brothers Henry Walter Sexton and Frederick Thornley Sexton as Executors ". After the payment of her debts, she willed that her executors "hold the residue Upon trust for my children Charles William Faux and Claud Faux as tenants in common in equal shares". The will was probated on the 10th March 1917.

Her obituary was published in the Eastern Daily Press, 7 March 1917 as follows:

Notes for Amy Williams Faux:

According to the recollections of Christine (Faux) Peach, she recalls visiting her Aunt Amy at 87 Philadelphia Lane when a very young child. Christine further recalls that at the time Amy was a widow, and was residing in the front of the house, with her widowed daughter Florence Gunton residing in the back of the same dwelling - apparently they were not on speaking terms.
